

Apprenticeship in Application Development (Informatiker/ in EFZ Applikationsentwicklung)

Google Switzerland GmbH is offering apprenticeships for students interested in gaining skills in Application Development. A team of vocational trainers will guide and support you during your 4-year apprenticeship. After a 1-year foundation course, you will join a Google team in Zurich and become engaged in projects that will lay the foundation for a successful future as an Application Developer. You will work with teams such as software development, user experience and/or security to gain a better understanding of the field.
